Special team to probe charges at DSS

Walker aide tells of attempt to use employees for political purposes

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — The supervisor of Gov. Daniel Walker's action offices in Rockford and Rock Island says Walker personnel have made two attempts to use his employees for political purposes in Chicago, the Rockford Morning Star and the Quad Cities Times reported in today's editions.

Terry Siebert charged Friday that in both cases he refused to give his employees permission and heard no more about it. The papers said it was one of the first admissions in the action office program that attempts were being made by Walker people to use the program as a political tool. The program was set up to serve people having trouble cutting through governmental red tape.

Kerner jail release plea includes report from prison doctor

CHICAGO (AP) — Evidence supporting Otto Kerner's appeal for immediate release from prison includes a prison doctor's report showing that the former governor could have tuberculosis or lung cancer.

The report, based on a Feb. 3 physical examination, was presented Friday at a hearing before U.S. District Judge Robert Taylor of Knoxville, Tenn. Taylor tried and sentenced Kerner to three years in prison for his role in a racetrack scandal.

The report was submitted by Dr. Thornton Scott of the federal correctional facility at Lexington, Ky., where Kerner began serving his sentence last July 29.

It stated that a spot on the Kerner's lung indicated "tuberculosis would have to be the primary consideration" and "even carcinoma (cancer) would have to be given consideration."

The report also said that "psychologically he (Kerner) has become increasingly morose, depressed, and agitated."

Kerner, 66, appeared fit and sun-tanned at the hearing, although his attorney, Thomas Patton, said that during the former governor's imprisonment, he has suffered four moderate heart attacks, experienced two blackouts and lost 30 pounds. U.S. Atty. James R. Thompson repeated at the hearing his earlier recommendation that Kerner and former state revenue director, Theodore Isaacs, who was convicted with Kerner and also is serving a three-year prison term, be released from prison.

"I still believe," Thompson said, "they should be free."

Thompson, however, questioned Judge Taylor's authority to reduce the sentences. He said the appeal was "simply in the wrong place; it's the wrong time, and he (Kerner) is asking your honor to do something that you have...no deference to do."

Taylor delayed action on the appeal. Apparently agreeing with Thompson, he said he had "serious doubts" about jurisdiction in the matter.

When Kerner arrived in Chicago for the hearing, he discovered his car had been stolen.

The auto, bearing Illinois license No. 2 had been parked in a lot adjoining an apartment he maintains on Chicago's Near North Side.

His daughter, Helena, told police Thursday that the car was there Sunday but was gone Monday.

"It's been that way since Nov. 16 when I started," Siebert said.

"I've had no communications with the Department of Transportation and I am sure no one in the Department of Transportation knows me," he said.

Siebert's name appeared on a list of "mystery employees" being paid by the DOT although they are performing other duties in departments and agencies controlled by the governor, the papers said.

Some of the employees, like Siebert, are working in the community action offices, set up last year after the General Assembly refused to fund the Governor's Office on Human Resources (GOHR).

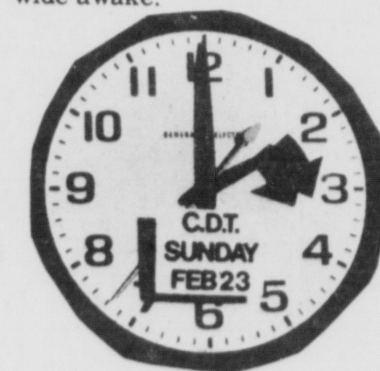

At the time, a number of Cook County Democrats charged that Walker had sent teams of GOHR employees into Chicago last spring to work for pro-Walker candidates in the legislative primary.

Siebert is paid $16,700 per year, the papers said.

Lose hour at 2 a.m. on Sunday

CHICAGO (AP) — Most people will be asleep when Daylight Saving Time arrives at 2 a.m. Sunday and one hour is automatically lost until next fall.

But Ellsworth W. Eldridge, who makes sure the time message recorded by the Bell Telephone Co. is accurate to a fraction of a second, will be wide awake.

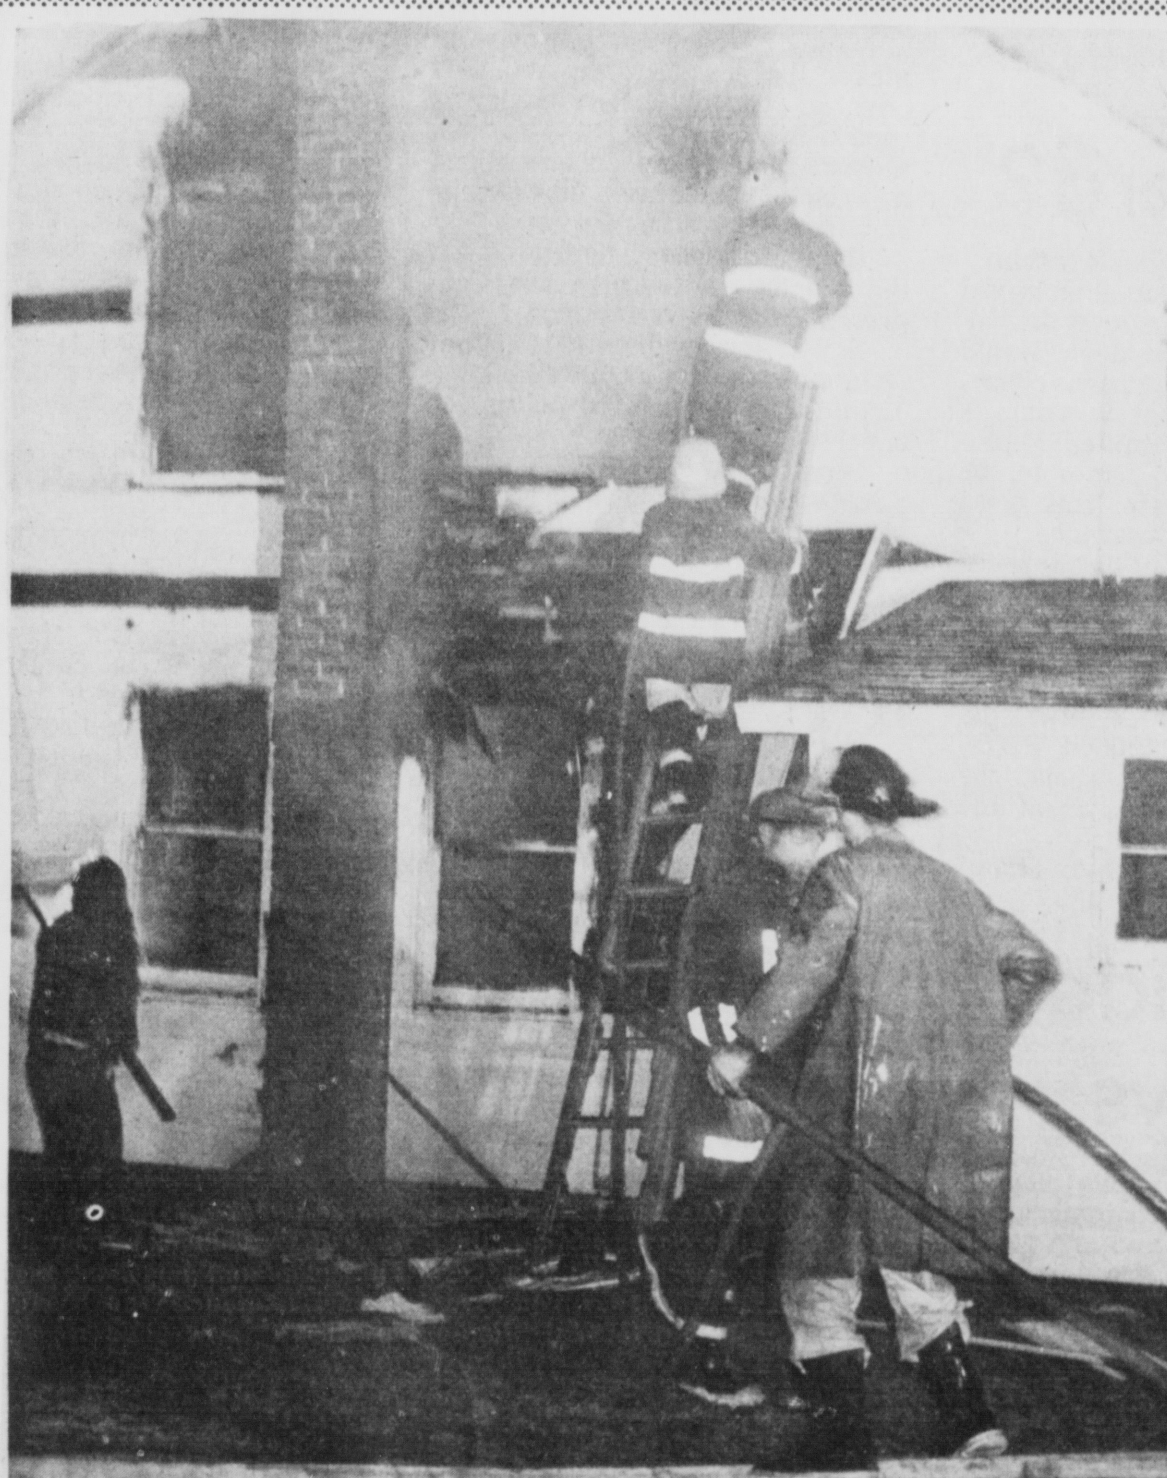

Eldridge, the utility's communications maintenance man, will set a backup machine one hour ahead and test it for accuracy shortly before 2 a.m. At 10 seconds before 2 a.m., he will put the machine's announcement "on the air."

Ten seconds later, one of the 110,000 persons who dial 228-8000 each day for the time in Chicago will hear that it is 3 a.m.

Among other clocks to be set ahead an hour are the 381 in the Sears Tower, the world's tallest building.

Since they are all controlled by simply changing a master clock, however, that operation will probably be simpler than the resetting done in individual homes.

Fire destroys farm residence

Three persons escaped from their home in an early-morning fire five miles southwest of Sublette on Todd Road. Mr. and Mrs. Blake Finley and his brother, who was staying with them, were aroused about 2:30 a.m. and fled through a window of the house. Sublette firemen were assisted by crews and equipment from Amboy, Mendota, La Moille and West Brooklyn. The house and its contents were destroyed. The Fire Belles served breakfast to the firemen at the Sublette Fire Station. (Telegraph Photo)

Probe to ferret out overpaid and illegal persons on welfare

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Illinois is beginning yet another effort to reduce the number of ineligible and overpaid persons on its welfare rolls.

The Department of Public Aid announced Friday what it termed "A massive effort" to re-evaluate the cases of some 90 per cent of the state's more than one million welfare recipients.

This announcement came in the wake of a report that the federal government planned to cut its welfare grant to Illinois by more than $5 million in fiscal 1975 because of the high number of ineligible and overpaid recipients.

The DPA began a major effort last June to weed ineligible recipients from welfare rolls, but a department spokesman said it was abandoned a month later without accomplishing anything.

Two years ago, at a national governor's conference in Washington, D.C., Gov. Daniel Walker pledged to review every welfare case in the state and rid the welfare rolls of the non-needy.

In a written statement, James L. Trainor, acting director of the Illinois DPA, said the new re-evaluation would involve the cases of all recipients of the mammoth Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program, as well as others receiving aid under different programs.

But Trainor also said the DPA might challenge in court the requirement by the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare that states reduce their ineligibility to an arbitrary level.

Search for boy believed drowned

Dragging and rescue operations resumed this morning along the Rock River in the Lost Nation area for a 6-year-old boy believed drowned Friday afternoon.

Henry Christopher Nehring is believed to have drowned in the river while playing with his dog outside his home adjacent to the Lost Nation Golf Course. The boy's mother, Mrs. Marjorie Nehring, called Ogle County Sheriff's Police shortly after 3 p.m. When authorities arrived on the scene Mrs. Nehring said she had heard the dog barking but did not see her son when checking on him. She added the dog was wet.

Ogle Deputies checked the riverbank and found a set of small footprints leading out on the ice to open water along with a set of dog footprints, but only the prints of the dog led back to the shore.

A foot search and a check of the nearby wooded area by snowmobiles was made by over 30 deputies and reserve deputies. Dragging operation began by the Dixon Rural Fire Department and the Byron and Oregon Fire Departments. Divers from the Winnebago County Dive team were also used in the search.

By LENNY INGRASSIA
An investigation into political kickbacks, allegedly demanded in exchange for job security at Dixon State School, has been turned over to the Office of Special Investigations, according to Norton Kay, Gov. Dan Walker's press secretary.

The investigation team is made up of a select group of 10 persons and billed as a non-political independent agency. The same agency is now probing the detection of four electronic bugging devices located in and around the State Capitol in Springfield.

The OSI works under the Department of Law Enforcement and is headed by Donald P. Moore, former U.S. Attorney in Washington. Its membership includes former FBI agents and former members of the Better Government Association.

Initially ordered by Gov. Dan Walker, in Dixon for an accountability session Feb. 13, the investigation followed charges by David D. Considine, legislative aide to State Rep. Richard Mautino.

During the session, Considine claimed a truck driver was fired for refusing to make a $25 contribution sought by a bricklayer, also employed by DSS.

However, DSS Supt. David Edelson, questioned following the session, said the truck driver was never taken off the payroll. "The only problem was his refusal to take a civil service examination," Edelson said.

The superintendent said Thursday his staff was conducting a thorough investigation into the kickback charges leading to a full report to the governor's office.

Edelson added that a preliminary report was already in the hands of the Department of Mental Health outlining the status of the truck driver, who remains unidentified. Summing up the report, Edelson said, "At no point was he discharged—he was hired as a part-time truck driver and when a slot opened he was transferred to full-time, and in such a capacity an examination is required," Edelson reasoned.

The report was termed premature by Kay, who said the OSI will do its own investigating. "Asking the department to investigate itself is a bad practice," Kay said.

The confrontation between the two state workers was said to have occurred in mid-December. Considine said information he received stated the truck driver offered to pay $5, saying it was all he could afford at the time. The man is the father of five children.

Considine said the counter-offer was rejected by the bricklayer and it was that instance and not the civil service examination that led to his dismissal.

Kay said he expected an initial report on progress of the investigation within one week.

Apparently unclear about the accountability session, Edelson said the man was let go for failing to take the exam. "It meant we were functioning illegally by continuing his employment," Edelson told an audience of 700 persons gathered in the Dixon High School cafeteria.

The day following the accountability session, Mrs. Margaret Tagge, personnel manager at DSS revealed the man was back on the job without losing any wages and without taking the exam.

The contradictions continued as Edelson then claimed the man was advised he could have his job back if he took the examination, while claiming in the report to the Department of Mental Health that the man was never discharged.

Kay said the results of former probes carried out by the special investigating team have led to either the forced resignation or discharge of 20 persons formerly connected with governmental departments across the state.

"Being an outside agency, they don't let friendships get in the way of their investigation," Kay said.

Bid-rigging fines assessed by judge

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A federal judge has fined five construction companies a total of $87,500 for their role in a conspiracy to fix the bidding on Illinois highway projects.

Judge Harlington Wood of U.S. District Court levied the fines Friday against the firms which are among 22 companies and four individuals indicted in January 1974.

The indictments charged that the firms rigged the bids on 11 federally funded Illinois highway projects totalling about $20 million between 1969 and 1972.

The firms and the amounts fined were: Paulter Brothers Contractors, Inc., Chester, $22,500; Frank Nutty, Inc., Vienna, $15,000; Johnson County Asphalt, Inc., Red Bud, $5,000; Standard Paving Co., Chicago, $37,500; and D.M. Lake Construction Co., Shelbyville, $7,500.

Lawyers for all five firms entered guilty pleas to the charges last month.

A spokesman for the Illinois Department of Transportation said a decision will be made later on whether the five firms will be suspended for up to a year from bidding on state contracts.

Presidents of three of the firms—Edwin Paulter, Frank Nutty and James Knott of Johnson County Asphalt—were given immunity in exchange for their testimony last September in a trial involving other firms and individuals.

Three of seven trials have been held in the case. A fourth trial is scheduled to begin March 17.

The indictment charged that the contractors would decide among themselves which firm would be the successful low bidder. The other companies would then submit higher bids.

Hostage released in Las Vegas hold-up attempt

By PATRICK ARNOLD
Associated Press Writer
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A woman teller at a savings and loan office near the glittering Las Vegas Strip was freed unharmed after police shot and killed the would-be robber who held her hostage.

The shooting Friday afternoon capped six hours of negotiations between police, FBI agents and the gunman, who was trapped inside the Home Savings and Loan Association office after an unsuccessful robbery attempt.

An FBI agent handed over the $100,000 the man had demanded, but the bandit was killed by a police sniper before authorities delivered the police car he wanted to use as an escape vehicle.

Officers identified the man as James S. Dutton Jr., 30, of Santa Barbara, Calif. Police said he had an extensive arrest record and had been in a hospital, possibly for psychiatric care, at least twice.

Police said Dutton entered the office shortly after it opened Friday morning in an attempt to rob it. But a teller pressed a silent alarm alerting police.

At least two other employees were in the office but escaped during the initial confusion, police said, leaving only Dutton and his hostage, Anita Jetland, 34.

After the gunman was shot, a police car raced up to a rear door and Mrs. Jetland ran to it. Asst. Sheriff Barton Jacka said officers who had talked to Dutton on the telephone described him as "very cool, very calm, and very intelligent" and said he sounded like "he is capable of anything."

Jacka said the shooting was part of an "executed plan" to free the hostage. He said members of the Special Weapons and Tactics team had been ordered to shoot if they had a clear line of fire after police received "certain pressing information" he would not divulge.

Judge upholds $3 oil import tariff

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has acknowledged President Ford's $3-per-barrel tariff on oil imports will be damaging to the Northeastern states but has upheld it for national security reasons.

U.S. District Judge John Pratt made the ruling Friday after a hearing in which nine states sought a temporary injunction against the tariff.

Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti, who argued the case for eight Northeastern states and Minnesota, said after the hearing that Pratt's ruling would be appealed.

The ruling came as a victory for the White House after setbacks in Congress, which voted to delay the tariff for 90 days. Ford says he will veto the bill.

In his decision, Pratt said, "We must accept the President's determination of national security upon which his action was predicated."

"Certainly, our continued dependence on imports of foreign oil threatens our national security, the economy, the posture of our defense and the conduct of our foreign affairs," Pratt said.

Bellotti had argued that Ford's national security justification for the tariff, which is legally called a license fee, could not be challenged, but the power under which Ford imposed it could.

"National security cannot be used as a public interest blanket under which everything can be hidden... however he adjusts imports, he must do it within the law... he has not done that," Bellotti said.

Bellotti also began to outline the economic damage to the Northeastern states because of the tariff when Pratt interrupted to say:

"I think you can assume the New England states will suffer irreparable injury," from the tariff.

Bellotti said Treasury Secretary William E. Simon should have conducted public hearings on the tariff before it was imposed and an environmental impact statement should have been filed before it took effect.

But Irwin Goldbloom, lawyer for the government, said a preliminary impact statement had been filed and that a complete one would be filed in May.

As for a hearing, Goldbloom said the law under which Ford acted requires a hearing only if the Treasury secretary deems one appropriate, which Goldbloom said Simon did not.

One dollar of the tariff is in effect, with additional dollars to take effect March 1 and April 1.

The head of the House Ways and Means Committee said in an interview Friday that an acceptable compromise between Congress and Ford would be to leave in effect the $1 but not impose the additional $2.

What is Gerald Ford?

In 1970 Gerald Ford voted for a guaranteed federal payment to low income families. In 1971 he voted for guaranteed bank loans to help major companies in need. In 1972 Rep. Gerald Ford voted for revenue sharing, the real purpose of which is to complete the destruction of local government in America.

In 1973 Gerald Ford called himself a conservative on fiscal affairs, but a strong internationalist in foreign policy. What do you call him?

In 1973 he voted for wage and price controls. Ford is an admirer of Ralph Nader. He told the students at the University of Michigan he was proud of his friend Mao of China.

Indebtedness comes from laws passed by Congress. A President cannot spend money unless Congress has made it available to him.

In Gerald Ford's situation he did vote for some of these laws that increase inflation. President Gerald Ford's pardon of Richard Nixon, who was not brought to trial, is therefore legally unjustified. It protects Nixon if crime comes to the surface at a later date. This gives both men a shoddy appearance.

Now President Ford has appointed Edward H. Levi, a Democrat, as attorney general of the United States. For years Levi was a member of the National Lawyers Guild, officially cited as the foremost legal bulwark of the Communist Party. This makes a pal of Communists the head of the justice department and boss of your FBI.

A consumer's guide to economic news

Concerning economic nomenclature, there is a proliferation of obfuscation in explanations to the nation.

Wha-a-at?

Well, that sentence is no worse than some of the terms economists use to report economic developments to Americans whose knowledge about economics, in many cases, begins and ends with the fact that their money buys less and that the reason is called "inflation."

But tax-paying, grocery-buying, bill-paying—and worried—Americans have a right to know how to read the economic tea leaves so they can prepare for, or prevent, the fates that might be in store for them.

To this end, a brief "field guide" to identifying the tallest trees in the verbal forest of current economics has been prepared by the Family Economics Bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. Here is the guide:

CONSUMER PRICE INDEX—A statistical barometer of price levels for goods and services being bought by most urban wage earners, compared to prices in 1967—the base index.

The current Consumer Price Index tells us that in 1974 it cost $154.30 to buy what $100 bought in 1967, a result of 12.1 per cent inflation during 1974, 8 per cent in 1973, and lower rates in earlier years.

DISPOSABLE INCOME—The amount of wages and salaries left to spend, after deduction of taxes and other fees required by government.

Disposable income has been running a match race with inflation for a long time—and winning—until 1974. It dropped 1.5 per cent in 1974, the first drop since WW II.

Before 1974, incomes generally rose faster than prices, so consumers were able to buy just as much, despite inflation. But last year prices rose faster than incomes.

GROSS NATIONAL PRODUCT—The dollar value of all goods and services produced in the U.S. A drop in "real" GNP (that is, GNP in stable dollars) is one of two prime indicators of a recession. High unemployment is the other.

Largely because GNP has been dropping at an annual rate of 4.5 to 5 per cent, nearly 6.5 million people looking for jobs couldn't find them in December, 1974. That's the largest number of unemployed in 13 years.

On the downside, GNP works like this: When the rate of economic growth declines, business profits eventually decline, too—so businessmen reduce their plant improvements and buy less new equipment.

(In stable dollars, capital investment in plant and equipment has been dropping since mid-1974.) As a result, the amount of goods industry produces declines, and profits decline still more. And, because industry is producing less, it needs fewer employees. Unemployment rises, and expendable income drops along with consumer demand (represented by money spent in retail stores), for the things manufactured by industry. This produces still more "drag" on economic growth.

CONSUMER CONFIDENCE—The mood of consumers is viewed as a potent economic force. That's why government policy makers looked up from their charts and graphs and listened attentively when the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center announced recently that confidence in the economy had dropped to its lowest point in 25 years.

Said Jay Shmiedeskamp, director of the Survey Research Center: "Consumers are dejected, not only by the continuation of a high rate of inflation but also by the slowdown in the economy."

STAGFLATION—Such a rare combination of inflation and recession that a new word was needed to describe it. With stagflation, high unemployment (characteristic of recession) and high prices (inflation) exist simultaneously.

Says Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, "The rules of economics are not working quite the way they used to."

Stagflation led to some indecisiveness in the community of economists in 1974. President Ford, who called inflation the primary cause of recession, received conflicting advice. Some economists advised the President to reduce the Federal budget and follow tight monetary policies. (But, that might worsen the recessionary trend.) Most economists, however, advised him to cut taxes and suggested that the Federal Reserve Board create more money for banks to loan to business. (But that might worsen the inflationary trend.) At this point, the President and Congress agree that decisive actions must be taken. But the form they should take is very much up in the air.

Whatever happens will affect every American's pocketbook—and how Americans will react is the $64 question that will not be fully answered for at least the next 12 months. In this tug of war, you'll probably get the best lesson you've ever had in basic economics.

Barry tells 'em like Harry did

By DON OAKLEY

That's right. We said Barry, not Harry, though the image of the late president definitely is in mind.

Harry S. Truman lambasted the "do-nothing" Republican 80th Congress in the 1948 election campaign. Barry Goldwater has taken on the top-heavily Democratic "do-everything" 94th Congress in 1975.

The present Congress is "probably the most dangerous" the country has ever had, the junior GOP senator from Arizona warned the other day.

"They have no concept of what makes the economy run and they have no concept of how money is used to make money. They have the attitude you can spend and spend and elect and elect even though this country is close to bankruptcy."

He added, not too hopefully, "If the country can survive this Congress, it can survive anything."

Now it goes without saying that Goldwater doesn't come on like a Truman. He's much too polite, for one thing.

(Anybody who could listen with a straight face, as Goldwater recently did during a visit to San Clemente, while Richard Nixon discussed the possibility of his serving the Republican party in some capacity, maybe in fund-raising—ye gods, fund-raising!—would have to be the quintessence of politeness.)

Nor does the average working stiff identify with Goldwater, although he is closer to the ordinary Joe than a lot of those who claim to be common man's defender.

The reason he is the junior senator from Arizona is because he resigned when he ran for president in 1964. He lost four years of valuable seniority while waiting for the next senatorial election.

Contrast that with Lyndon B. Johnson, who got a court ruling that he could run simultaneously for vice president and Texas senator in 1960.

In 1964, Goldwater told it straight—that the nation might have to go to war in Vietnam to prevent a Communist takeover. Lyndon Johnson was shocked, and elected.

It is poetic justice, and not a little sad, that Barry Goldwater is about the only one around to "give 'em hell" now that the chickens of economic chaos incubated during the Roosevelt and Truman New and Fair Deals and hatched by LBJ's Great Society are coming home to roost.

Nobody will listen to you, Barry. But give 'em hell, anyway.

Voice of the people

To the Editor:

There is an old saying that goes, "If you can't say something good, don't say anything at all!" Well, I have something good I'd like to say.

This year I have been serving as president of the PTO at Lincoln School and I have been deeply impressed with the attitudes, interest, and involvement of the teachers and the principal at our school. Many times people will comment that teachers are only interested in the salary and not the students or school. As a parent, the more I work with the school's staff, the more I am convinced this statement does not apply at Lincoln.

An example of teacher involvement was a recent teacher's talent night for a PTO meeting. A gym full of students, parents, and guests enjoyed a variety show of teacher talent that was fantastic. To everyone's delight, the teachers dressed in Mickey Mouse attire did the old-time Walt Disney act, followed by skits, instrumentals, solos, quartets, and many other special numbers.

I feel teachers such as these should be commended for their willingness to spend much extra time and effort to prepare wholesome entertainment for students and parents to enjoy.

This is only one example. The more one becomes aware of their daily routines, the more evident their involvement beyond the call of duty can be seen.

In behalf of the PTO I would like to salute the Lincoln teachers for keeping their profession a unique and special one as they train the minds of tomorrow.

Belt tightening at Vatican

ROME (LENS)—Pope Paul's wage bill has just gone up by 10 per cent, $125,000 a month, as a result of rises in the Italian cost-of-living index; to which the 3,000 Vatican salaries are related.

It does not seem a crippling amount. But alarm bells have gone off in the Vatican. Cardinal Villot, the Secretary of State, has described it as a "grave burden, too great for the Holy See to bear," and the provisional budget for Curia expenses for 1975 has been blocked.

The Pope himself has appointed a special commission to supervise cuts in the Vatican staff.

The blocked budget is only one of several Vatican budgets and it is always in the red, because its investment income has lagged below the growth of the Vatican staff and the extra costs of running the more active Curia. Each year money is transferred from other Vatican budgets to fill the gap.

For instance, the Governor of the Vatican State nets over $2.4 million a year from selling stamps. There is a tariff paid by shopkeepers for having rosaries blessed. The Pope also has an annual general purposes income in the form of Peter's Pence—contributions collected from Catholics all over the world each year, a large part of which is redistributed as charity.

When Pope John decided out of the blue to give Vatican staff a 50 per cent pay rise in 1959 the difference came from this fund. But Paul wants to stop "robbing Peter": to cut down on ordinary administrative outgoings so as to be able to keep more of his money for charity.

How generous he can afford to be depends to some extent on how efficiently the various Vatican investment portfolios are managed. There can be no denying that the "Institute for Religious Works," as the Vatican bank is called, has been in some bad investments lately.

It had a share—conservatively estimated at 15 per cent—in Michele Sindona's Banca Unione. This would have been worth anything between $15 million and $37 million at last year's prices. It is now worthless. The Vatican bank is also believed to have lost a further $5 million in other failed banks, including another of Sindona's.

Worse still, like Sindona's foreign exchange dealers, the Vatican has displayed a near dogmatic belief in the strength of the dollar. Massimo Spada, a senior Vatican financial adviser, states that a senior Vatican employee, identified as one of the Vatican bank's topmost currency experts, enjoyed playing the foreign exchange markets, and ended up with several million pounds worth of losses.

These are big sums to be written off a balance sheet, but one would expect multimillionaire investors like the Vatican to have made corresponding gains in recent years and it is highly doubtful if the financial strength of the Vatican as a whole has been seriously affected.

Economy: bad but not 'as bad as'

The Commerce Department reports that its index of leading economic indicators—a composite of 12 basic measurements of economic activity—dipped in December for the fifth straight month.

Despite the fact that economic prospects for the coming year are far from bright, they do not justify the widespread popular feeling that the United States is entering or headed for economic disaster resembling the Great Depression of the 1930s.

This, at any rate, is the view of Dr. Larry Kimbell of the UCLA graduate school of business management.

Kimbell, director of economic models for the school's Business Forecasting Project, cites the following comparisons between the Great Depression and the outlook for 1975:

(1) Unemployment: In the Depression, it was over 20 per cent for four years and averaged a staggering 19 per cent for the nine years from 1931 to 1939. In 1974, it averaged 4.4 per cent, will average less than 8 per cent in 1975 and is expected to drop below 6 per cent by the end of 1976.

(2) Consumption expenditures, adjusted for inflation: In the Depression, they fell almost 20 per cent from 1929 to 1933, whereas from 1973 to 1975 they are expected to rise by 1.5 per cent.

(3) Gross private domestic investment, adjusted for inflation: It fell 87 per cent from 1929 to 1933, while it is predicted to fall 19 per cent from 1973 to 1975.

(4) Gross national product, adjusted for inflation: It fell 30 per cent from 1929 to 1933, but it is predicted to fall less than 4 per cent from 1973 to 1975.

The comparisons could be extended almost endlessly, says Kimbell—to personal income, to corporate profits, etc.—and every one indicates that this recession will be "radically less severe" than the Great Depression.

Why then do the polls show that so many people think we are headed for another Great Depression?

"It's hard to say whether it's nostalgia, fantasy or a substitute for a good disaster movie," suggests Kimbell.

25 YEARS AGO

Ash Wednesday ushered in Lent today for millions of Christians throughout the world. There will be 40 days of fasting, abstinence and special penitence in preparation for Easter.

50 YEARS AGO

Monday will generally be considered a legal holiday in Dixon in commemoration of Washington's Birthday. The courthouse will be closed all day, none of the offices being open.

Final plans were completed last night for Dixon's big third annual Automobile Show, which will be held in Horton's Motor Service Garage, 90 Ottawa Avenue, on March 5, 6 and 7.

ment to the U.S. Constitution. Simply stated, it would provide that sex should not be a factor in determining the legal rights of men and women.

A total of 38 state legislatures (three-fourths of the total) must ratify ERA within seven years of March, 1972, before it would become the 27th Amendment to the Constitution. Thirty-four states have already ratified it. The Illinois Senate is expected to vote on the issue in March, Czarnik said. If passed by the Senate, it would move to the House for a vote.

This is the fourth consecutive year that backers of ERA have urged the Illinois General Assembly to ratify the amendment.

Proponents believe Illinois has a better chance than ever this year of passing ERA because the 79th General Assembly is solidly Democratic and the number of ERA supporters is growing, Czarnik said.

One element in the growing controversy is the number of votes needed to ratify the ERA in Illinois, which requires a three-fifths vote. Twice in the past when the ERA came up for a vote in Illinois it received a majority vote but not three-fifths.

ERA backers have a federal court suit pending. It asks that the three-fifths requirement be thrown out on grounds that Illinois has no right to set guidelines for approval of a federal amendment.

Other elements in the controversy involve what Czarnik called the "Misunderstanding people have about ERA and what it means."

She said some people are fighting ERA because they fear it will mean an end to separate restrooms for men and women. "That's ridiculous. ERA will go along with the guaranteed right of privacy," she said.

Equality under the law does not mean sharing restrooms, but it does mean that separate facilities must be equal in quality, convenience, and availability, Czarnik said.

ERA is also misunderstood as a "Women's rights" law, she said. But it will also bring about fairness to men, especially in areas of family support laws, alimony payments and child custody, which have traditionally favored women.

Nectarines-pork, a tasty combo

By AILEEN CLAIRE
Pork goes well with fruit and most are familiar with pork and apples or apple sauce. However, now that the nectarines are tumbling from the California trees into markets around the country, try them as tasty companions for juicy pork chops. Simmer pork chops briefly in a rich chutney sauce. When chops are done push to one side of the pan and place sliced nectarines, cut-sides down, in the sauce. Simmer for a minute or two to heat this luscious fruit quickly. Nectarines add color and flavor to such a meal and also may substitute for a starchy vegetable for those who are diet-conscious.

- CHUTNIED PORK AND NECTARINES
- 4 loin pork chops (about 1 1/2 pounds)
  - 1/4 teaspoon salt
  - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
  - 1/4 teaspoon paprika
  - 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
  - 1/2 cup chutney, chopped
  - 1/2 cup water
  - 2 tablespoons wine
  - 1 teaspoon chicken seasoned stock base
  - 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
  - 1-16th teaspoon cloves
  - 2 large fresh California nectarines, halved

Trim away excess fat from chops. Sprinkle meat with salt, pepper and paprika and brown slowly in butter or margarine (or rendered fat from chops). Combine all remaining ingredients except nectarines, pour over chops and heat to boiling. Cover, and cook over low heat about 1 hour, until tender, adding a little water if sauce becomes too thick. Skim off and discard any excess fat. Push chops to one side of pan. Place nectarines, cut-sides down, in sauce and simmer a minute or two, just until nectarines are heated. Makes 4 servings.

Dear Ann

by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am 16 years old and very mature for my age. I like this kid (I will call him Keith) very much. My parents can't stand him. They think his hair is terrible. They don't like the way he dresses. All I hear from them is how sloppy he is and how awful his manners are. I am sick of it.

The more they hassle me about Keith the more determined I am that they are not going to break us up. I am old enough to know who I want to go with. Maybe one of these days I will meet somebody I will like better than Keith, but as long as my parents are on my back I'm going to keep going with him just to show them they can't run my life.

Please print my letter, Ann. Mom and dad are always showing your column in my face. Here's one I will shove in theirs. — Mind Of My Own

Dear Mind: I'm printing your letter so a few million parents around the country can gain some insight into what goes on with their teenage children. Your letter has a powerful message. I hope they get it.

Dear Ann Landers: In 1968 you printed a letter from a relative complaining about a doctor bill. It seems his young cousin had just set up practice and sent a bill for services rendered during office hours. The complaint was, "The boy was just getting started and I thought I was doing him a favor by giving him some practical experience."

Please rerun that letter for the benefit of those who have forgotten it. I'm in my last year of specialty training and receiving long-distance calls asking for advice about sunburn, headaches and backaches, requests to write notes excusing kids from gym class, prescriptions for tranquilizers, diet pills, etc., which I cannot fill.

Please hunt up that old column and rerun it, Ann. Thank you. — A. H. Z. Of London, Ontario

Dear A. H. Z.: No need to rerun it. Your letter states your position clearly. If your relatives continue to impose on you I hope you'll tell them exactly how you feel. If you don't have the guts to level with them, prepare for more of the same — and I can promise you, it will go on forever.

Dear Ann Landers: My son has been married to a very nice young woman for nearly three years. We're tired to be friendly but she has made it plain that she wishes to keep us at arm's length.

Our daughter-in-law has never called us by any name whatever. It's always "Hi there." When they go on vacations our son always writes the postcards to "Dear Mom and Dad." But they're from HIM, not her.

We sign our gift cards to her using our first names, but she has yet to call us "Mary and Bill." I do feel "Mr. and Mrs." is too formal for in-laws. This is quite a dilemma and we would appreciate some guidance. — At A Loss

Dear Loss: Why don't you raise the question to her face? Simply ask your daughter-in-law what she would like to call you. Tiptoeing around for three years makes no sense. If she says it doesn't matter, suggest your first names, since obviously she doesn't wish to call you Mom and Dad.

Confidential to Troubles Plus Insomnia: I'm not surprised. Life can be an uphill fight for a guy who isn't on the level. When "H" decides to get out of that kinky business you'll both sleep better.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
It has been said, accidents with a hundred honors have killed more bridge players than accidents with autos.

We have not seen the latest statistics, but we would be the last ones to dispute the claim. South had a hundred honors in two suits. If he had forgotten all about them and raised his partner to three notrump, North would have romped home with the rubber.

However, South wanted that extra 100 points and bid four spades. West's 10 of clubs held the first trick. He continued the suit and South ruffed. Three leads drew the trumps, whereupon South led a low diamond. West hopped up with the queen and led a third club. South had to ruff with his last trump. He cashed the good hearts, but had to give East the last two tricks.

South could have had both his honors and the game if he had used a little care. When he got around to leading diamonds he should have led the king, since East was marked with the ace for his opening bid. East could not duck. That would give South his 10 tricks. On the other hand, if East took the trick he would have had the Hobson's choice between leading a diamond or a heart, or laying down the ace of clubs and setting up dummy's king.

Organization for women vocalists

"Down Dixon Way" is a new organization of women vocalists from Dixon, Amboy, Ashton, Mt. Morris and Prophetstown.

They are presently seeking new members who also enjoy harmony singing, and the group is the prospective Nachusa Chapter of Sweet Adelines.

Some members have musical backgrounds, and others do not — but they have one thing in common — they all love to sing.

The main purpose of the Sweet Adelines is to teach and train its members in singing four-part harmony — barber shop style — without instrumental accompaniment. Their music includes new and old songs, patriotic and religious selections.

The group meets each Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the basement of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, and area women interested in joining the organization are welcome to attend.

Secretaries sponsor show and dinner

Many persons attended the second annual dinner and fashion show sponsored by the Lee-Whiteside Counties Legal Secretaries Association Tuesday night at Emerald Hill Country Club when new spring costumes, modeled by association members, were provided by the Happy Hanger Shop, Dixon, and Dickkens Men's Wear, Northland Mall, Sterling.

Mrs. Leila Pegorin, operator of the Happy Hanger Shop, served as commentator for the show, and piano music was provided by Mrs. Estella Johnson, Dixon. Coordinators for the event were Mrs. Marlene Lewis, Morrison, and Mrs. Roni Stolzoff, Sterling.

Because of illness, Miss Mary Ann Hartwick, Waukegan, president of the Illinois Association of Legal Secretaries, was unable to attend.

Mrs. Laughrin presents Questers Club program

The Questers Club Nachusa Chapter met recently with Mrs. Cecil Laughrin who presented a program entitled "Everywhere West," the slogan of a railroad empire.

Many railroads chose a slogan to add to the drama and challenge of settling a new land and they are usually printed on the railroad cars.

C. B. and Q.
The first C.B. and Q. railroad consisted of six miles of wood rails covered with iron strips. On Sept. 2, 1850 at 6:30 a.m. a small pioneer engine borrowed from the Northwestern Railroad, and one coach pulled out of Batavia and traveled to Turner Junction. Progress was rapid, and by October regular service began between Batavia and Aurora with trains running each morning and each night.

Chicago, at that time had a population of 28,620, and Congress granted the city more than 2 1/2 million acres of land for the construction of the Illinois-Michigan Canal and stage coach service had proved to be inadequate for traffic to and from Chicago. The railway age had arrived, and the "iron horse" was the answer to the need.

An alert young lawyer, James F. Joy, and an engineer, John W. Brooks, persuaded the Boston capitalist, John M. Forbes to invest money in the new railroad. In time, the railroad stretched from Chicago to Burlington and Quincy — so the name C.B. and Q. was chosen. It was the first railroad to reach the Mississippi River in 1859, and in 1860 the first mail car went from Hannibal to St. Joseph, Mo.

Despite Indian attacks and construction difficulties in a virtually uninhabited area, the railroad was finally extended to Kearney Junction, Neb., and on

Meeting for Woman's Club

The craft division of the Dixon Woman's Club met recently with Mrs. Verne Johnson when Mrs. Wilson Walker gave instructions on sketching.

Mrs. Wilson also judged sketches of a country scene made by division members at their last meeting, and she discussed art media, colors and materials used in art work. She stated anyone who could draw a rectangle, square, circle, a cone or a triangle in proportion and proper shading would have the basis for most types of art work. She emphasized the importance of color, and stated that light colors are used in painting the background of a picture, and bold colors are used in the front areas.

Following the art instructions, refreshments were served by Mrs. Selma Levy.

Lamp nostalgia casts new glow

By JEAN BARNES

In the '30s on the farm "filling the lamps" was a privilege bestowed to the most responsible child and usually was performed as part of the "before school" ritual. Then, when chores were done and supper dishes were cleared away, the brightest lamp was set in the center of the table and homework was prepared for the next day.

More often than not in the midwestern states that lamp was a Coleman and many are still in use today.

In 1901 W. C. Coleman acquired the patent, contract and materials for the Efficient Lamp. Setting up his plant in Wichita, Kan., he began marketing, not lamps, but a lighting service to acquaint the public with his remarkable product. Unlike most lamps of that day the Coleman burned gasoline under pressure, producing a brilliant (300 candlepower) and safe light.

Those early lamps took time and effort to light. A torch generated the vaporizing unit. The torch required alcohol, an alcohol jar and a match, plus a minute to heat the vaporizing unit to produce light.

In those first years the lighting system was perfected which allowed business houses and homes to use a series of lamps fed from a single fuel tank outside the building. Fuel was fed to the lamps by means of a 1/8-inch copper tube. It wasn't until 1908 that Coleman manufactured the first completely portable lamp.

Constantly seeking improvements he patented the Quick-Lite lamp in 1913 which made the alcohol torch obsolete. His quest for "instant lighting" was rewarded. In 1929 a patent was issued for the Coleman Instant Lighting Lamp.

A 1920 catalogue of Coleman products shows that the Quick-Lite was the lowest in price, selling for $11.50 new. It was 20 inches tall and fitted with a white opal shade. The nickel-plated fount held three pints of fuel.

If you wanted something with more class you could purchase for $18 a lamp with hand-painted shade decorated with a four-inch crystal fringe. But the portable lamps were not really meant to be ornamental. They are functional in design and the design has changed very little in the past 50 years.

Coleman lamps were made in the United States as late as the 1940s and in Canada until last year. There are many, many Coleman lamps available to today's collectors. But with the public seeking alternate sources of energy and the present trend of "nostalgia" collecting this will undoubtedly affect the supply in the future.

The Doctor Says:

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I notice that any time I drink alcoholic beverages, make an error in speech, cannot come up with the proper answer or even experience the heat of a hot day, my face becomes excessively flushed and red. This condition may last from seconds to minutes or even hours depending on the situation. This will also happen if I'm placed before total strangers or a large group.

To say the least it becomes all the more embarrassing and uncomfortable, no matter what the circumstances.

I would very much appreciate it if there is any advice you can give me to make the situation more tolerable.

DEAR READER — Your response may be exaggerated, but it is a normal reaction. Your skin turns red because the small blood vessels in your face open up and more blood flows to the skin.

The increased blood flow is very useful when you are hot. It helps to cool the body and lower body temperature. Alcohol, through its drug effect, does the same thing to the blood vessels. You can see from this that alcohol is not a good thing to protect your body heat for exposure to cold weather, contrary to popular belief.

Any factor that embarrasses or makes a person feel ill at ease will make some people flush, the common old blush. Our bodies communicate our feelings in many ways. Body movements, positions and gestures have been called body language. Other signs that are even less under our control are flushing, dilation of the pupil of the eye, and facial expression.

You may be surprised to know that the blood flow to the colon is also affected by your embarrassment. It flushes or turns pale according to the circumstances.

When your face flushes from embarrassment, it is a way of communicating this to those around you. Other people develop a quaver in the voice or an unsteady hand.

The first thing to do is recognize it as a normal thing. The second step is to get used to situations that embarrass you so you won't feel embarrassed. That is easier said than done. But the best prescription I have for that is to become genuinely interested in what the other fellow is doing.

Most people are so interested in their own feelings they seldom notice what is happening to the other guy. You are most likely your own worst critic and your best observer.

When you are watching the other guy or gal you seldom are as conscious of your own reactions, and you begin to simmer down.

Make an effort to be more outgoing. Become a bit more socially aggressive, and take the first step in meeting people and starting a conversation.

If there are any organizations for training in public speaking join one and learn to speak in public. It will give you a real boost in self-confidence. Many communities have a toastmaster's club of some sort that you could join. The more effort you make the less of a problem you will have.

Zinnen's free throws are key

Dukes nip Rockets 63-62

By MIKE CUNIFF
Telegraph Sports Editor

ROCK FALLS — All the fans knew the outcome of the NCIC basketball game between the Dixon Dukes and the Rock Falls Rockets would be decided by the play of sophomores, here, Friday night but it was four free throws by Dixon sophomore Dave Zinnen in the last :23 that accounted for a 63-62 Duke triumph.

The defection of 11 of the 12 members of the Rocket varsity squad earlier in the season left Rock Falls head coach John Tierney with only one recourse — elevate freshmen and sophomores to replace the boys who quit.

Four Sophomores

Tierney's opening line-up on Friday included a quartet of sophomores and senior center Dave Brotheridge. The first Rocket reserve was freshmen forward John Cook. With all the underclassmen being utilized by Tierney, some people may have expected the Dukes to blow the Rockets off the court especially after Dixon bombed LaSalle-Peru and Newman last weekend.

However, a 25 of 62 field goal shooting performance blunted the Dukes' offensive effectiveness and it took Zinnen's four-for-four performance at the charity stripe to nail down the verdict. Dixon had a 59-50 lead with 2:23 to go after Ned Vail zeroed in his fourth successive shot of the second half.

Let Tierney explain what happened then. "We were down nine until 2:10 left but then we got six baskets down the stretch. Peugh (Dave) had two baskets, Menchaca (Dan) had two and Brotheridge had two and you know they fought their guts out."

Just a Little Short

"We just came up a little short. It was a carbon copy of the Sterling game a couple of weeks ago. But in all fairness," Tierney continued, "I'd have to say Dixon was the better team on the court tonight. They didn't apply back-court pressure like Sterling will if we meet them in the regional."

"But I am extremely proud of the way we played. Two weeks ago, we got hammered badly especially physically. Breitza (Steve) hurt us badly in the second quarter tonight. He got two lobs for easy baskets and had another couple 'Annie-Overs' to end up with five buckets in the quarter."

It was the third basket by the Dukes' senior pivotman that enabled the Purple-and-White to grab its first lead of the evening — a 26-25 advantage with 3:45 to go. Dixon's Dave Moody put in an offensive rebound. Breitza hit a short jumper and Greg Weigle stole the ball and made an uncontested lay-up to help the Dukes grab a 35-31 lead as the half ended.

The Dukes Lead By Eight

The Dukes led by eight at two different times in the third quarter and expanded it to nine (55-46) in the final stanza. Don Thompson and Peugh then exchanged baskets with Moody and Vail to move the score to 59-50.

Rock Falls took a time out with 2:23 left and then scored eight straight points. Peugh dropped home a 25-footer then stole the ball and missed a driving lay-up. Marty Bollman popped through the rebound.

After Moody failed on a jump shot, Menchaca canned a 15-footer. Peugh then pilfered the ball and the Rockets worked it around until Brotheridge's jumper from the free throw line swished the net. The bucket sliced the Dixon lead to 59-58 with :52 left.

Put in the Stall

The Dukes called time and set up its stall offense. Dixon kept the ball alive until Weigle was fouled with :24 to go. The Dukes were not yet in a bonus situation so took the ball out of bounds. Peugh fouled Zinnen on the throw-in.

Rock Falls called a time out to unnerve the sophomore guard but Zinnen returned to net both shots of the one-and-one. Brotheridge returned the margin to one with a basket with :09 left.

Bollman fouled Zinnen in the back-court with :06 to go. Zinnen's pair of successes gave the Dukes a 63-60 lead and made meaningless a last-second bucket by Menchaca. The victory improves Dixon's NCIC ledger to 6-4 and the overall mark to 7-13. Rock Falls drops to 4-6 and 8-13, respectively.

Franklin Comments

Dick Franklin, Dixon head varsity coach, stated after the win, "Rock Falls is a good club and I thought they were well disciplined and did an excellent job. You can say all you want to about them being an outstanding bunch of sophomores, but, a win is a win regardless of whether it is one point or 30 or 40." Moody led the Dukes with 11 rebounds, five on offense. Breitza hauled down nine with four at the scoring end. Kurt Wallace got seven boards in a reserve role. Weigle paced the club with six assists.

Breitza funneled through eight of 16 shots and added two free throws to finish with 18 points. Vail and Moody chipped in with 10 each while Wallace had four baskets and the same number of free throws for a dozen.

Zinnen Nets Seven Points

Zinnen had seven points, all at the charity stripe. Brotheridge led Rock Falls with 20 markers including nine baskets in 16 shots. Bollman put in six of his first eight attempts, then cooled off to finish with eight successes in 17 tries for 16 points. Thompson also got into double figures with 10 markers.

Bollman hit five buckets in the opening quarter as the Rockets assumed an 18-14 advantage. The guard hit a pair of 20-footers, the same amount of 15-footers (all from the left side) and then twisted for a short shot.

Rock Falls utilized five offensive rebounds and three rejections of Zinnen field goal attempts by Brotheridge to take the lead. Vail picked up three fouls and was replaced by Wallace with 1:48 left.

Wallace Gets Two and Two

Wallace put in two baskets and a pair of free throws while Breitza worked inside for five hoops in the second quarter. The Dukes were 9-20 for the stanza. The Rockets cooled off after an 8-21 first quarter to net only six of 17 the second period.

Bollman had only one basket in five shots but did come up with a couple of assists. Vail came back in with 5:24 to go in the third quarter, missed his first shot and then drilled four in a row the rest of the way. Three of the baskets were from 15 feet up high on the left side, while the fourth was from the same distance on the right.

Brotheridge collected five points in the third quarter via a free throw and a basket on a out-of-bounds play plus a lay-up on a feed by Cook. Wallace was injured with 6:02 remaining and was replaced by Mike LeBlanc who promptly dropped in a field goal.

Five of Six at One Time

"Bollman was five of six at one time," Tierney said in the locker room, "and you know he can't keep that pace up. He had a great start to keep us in control and we felt he had a hot hand but then in the latter part of the game, he forced a couple of shots."

"But he'll learn. With six seconds left, he kept his head to fool Zinnen. Dixon could have easily have run the clock out if we didn't foul them. It was a heads-up play." Overall, I was very proud of the way we played. You know, we were down seven to start the fourth quarter after a very positive start, but we never did give up."

Rock Falls ended with 29 baskets in 66 attempts. The Rockets made four of five free throw chances. Dixon has tonight off and travels to Rockford Boylan for a non-conference contest on Tuesday.

Alden's scoring saves Mounders

WINNEBAGO — Ron Alden netted a free throw with :03 to go in regulation time to tie the game and then scored all six of the Mt. Morris points in overtime as the Mounders slipped by Winnebago 66-63, here, Friday night in a Mid-Northern Conference battle.

The triumph avenged an earlier season loss to Winnebago for the Mounders. Mt. Morris finished the Mid-Northern with a 13-1 record and is now 20-1 overall. Alden connected on three baskets in the overtime session to offset a basket by Dennis Nelson and a free throw by Jim Sartorius for the home team.

Alden got 22 of his game-high 29 points after half including two baskets and three free throws in the third quarter when Mt. Morris outscored Winnebago 15-8. The home team rallied to hold the Mounders to 14 points in the fourth stanza (nine by Alden on three buckets and the same number of free throws) while netting 20.

quarter. Cowman finished with 18 points to lead Winnebago. Gray and Nelson got 13 each. Alden potted 10 buckets and nine charity tosses for 29 points. Andrew Reckmeyer added 11 before fouling out. The Mounders close out their regular season tonight by hosting Dakota.

Clippers win 66-58

AMBOY — The Amboy Clippers outscored Harvard 18-8 in the final quarter, here, Friday night to claim a 66-58 Shark Conference victory over the Hornets. Steve Powers and Buck Fenwick hit five points each while Greg Esgar added four in the fourth stanza for the Clippers.

"We trailed the entire game," Gary Croegaert, Amboy head varsity coach, stated, "and at one time we were down nine (48-39) in the third quarter. We got nine straight points to tie the score but they got two free throws before the quarter ended and led going into the fourth quarter."

"Finally, in the fourth quarter, we really played solid defense for the first time all night. Either they were good offensively or we were poor defensively because they really put the ball in the hole," Croegaert continued.

"We couldn't hold their two big kids down, especially Smith (Don). But our reserves did a good job. Mark Powers came off the bench to do a fine job in the first half. Fenwick was outstanding for his overall hustle while Esgar played well. Steve Powers had a fine second half while Joe Bothe kept us in the game with 17 points in the first half."

"We had a super job on the boards with 43 rebounds, the most we've had all year, with 23 of them at the offensive end." Bothe had 15 boards, nine of offense. Steve Powers pulled down 10 while Greg Koch got five. Amboy committed only eight turnovers.

Bothe's 17 points paced the Clippers. Fenwick finished with five buckets as the same number of charity tosses for 15 points. Steve Powers managed 13 while Esgar put in 10. Smith had 21 points for Harvard, including 13 free throws.

Amboy was 24 of 60 from the field for 40 per cent while Harvard was 20 of 49. Both teams were 18 of 29 from the charity stripe. The Clippers finished 8-4 in Shark action and now hold a 15-8 season record. Amboy is now idle until meeting the winner of the Ohio-Walnut game in the La Moille Regional on Wednesday.

34 want Woodhull masrshal's position

WOODHULL, Ill. (AP)—The village board as been deluged with applications for the vacant post of village marshal, and the mayor thinks it's a sign of the sagging economy.

Thirty-four applications have come from communities as far as Galesburg, Monmouth, Rock Island and Davenport, Iowa. The job pays $9,500 a year, gives no overtime for a 45-hour week and leaves it to the man to buy his own gun.

"Part of it is because there's a lot of people unemployed," said Mayor Lloyd Carlson. "I think that there were some who just applied because they were unemployed and felt that maybe if they'd find another job maybe they'd leave us again."

Carlson also said the growing danger of being a cop in larger cities may have stimulated applications. About half the applicants had experience in police work, he estimated.

"We had a couple that were on larger forces and there's been a lot of shootings and things like that with the police in larger towns," he said. "Maybe they felt they'd rather just come out in a smaller community and get a job like this."

Carlson said 28 applicants showed up for interviews with the seven-member village board on Feb. 17. The field has been narrowed to eight candidates and the board hopes to make a final selection Monday, he said.

Whoever gets the job will find crimes few and far between in the Henry County community of about 900. The only serious crime Carlson remembers is a shooting a few years ago, and he said authorities think that may have been a suicide.

"The job is a night watchman, it's taking care of the law, taking care of the streets," said Carlson.

"We've got three taverns that you've got to watch. And then we've got a truck stop that's open 24 hours a day."

"Burglaries, they have them once in a while. But I don't remember when there's been any armed robberies," he said.

The new marshal will get a marked village squad car and a $100 uniform allowance, but if he wants a gun he'll have to provide it himself, Carlson said.

Carlson described the $9,500 salary as adequate and said: "Some say you can live so much cheaper in a small community. I don't know that you can really do that, but taxes are less."

He said Woodhull is a peaceful place to live but the number of applications surprised him.

"We didn't expect that many," he said. "We had six applications. The last time we hired one, and before that we didn't even have that many."

Opossum candidate for state animal

MARISSA, Ill. (AP)—If 54 fifth graders at the Marissa Elementary School have their way, the Illinois General Assembly will recognize didelphis marsupialis as the state animal.

Stripped of its fancy name, didelphis is just a plain old opossum.

Two classes began studying the animal earlier this month and concluded he deserved the title despite his rather unattractive countenance and unsavory dining habits.

Not only is the opossum the only native North American animal which rears its young in its pouch, they learned, it also helps keep the great outdoors tidy by devouring the bodies of dead animals.

Youngsters drew up a petition calling for official action, collected 300 signatures the first day of circulation, and drafted a model bill for legislators who might also be of the opossum persuasion.

Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-DuQuoin, told them he'd be down Monday to look at the bill and would carry it back to Springfield if he found enough support for it.

A few years ago, Illinois schoolchildren, in a statewide referendum, selected the state bird-no, not a buzzard, a cardinal.

Snow and twisters

By The Associated Press
Tornadoes and high winds churning out of a growing winter storm over the southern Plains killed four persons and injured at least 20 others today in southwestern Oklahoma.

Heavy snow that began falling after the winds passed hampered rescue efforts. The storm had dumped 7 to 8 inches of snow across Arizona and New Mexico earlier.

Two persons were killed when a predawn twister barred through Altus, Okla. State police reported the winds damaged or destroyed nearly 100 mobile homes. Most of the 20 injured were being treated at Altus Air Force Base Hospital.

One person was killed and another injured when winds destroyed six to eight mobile homes in the Mountain Park, Okla., area. Another died in a severe windstorm at Duncan, where heavy damage also was reported.

Other southwest Oklahoma towns hit by the violent weather were Lawton, Marlow, Comanche and Cooperton and Purcell in the south-central part of the state.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE C-684: Lawrence L., aged 22, is a seminary student. "Dr. Crane," he began, "I handle a small church on the weekends, so I get to put my seminary training into quick practice."

"And that helps me a great deal, too."

"But a lot of our seminary teaching is way up in the clouds and so far removed from the practical interests of ordinary people, that they go to sleep when I am speaking."

"So I have switched over to your practical pulpit psychology."

"And the congregation don't go to sleep when I use Christ's anecdotal formula for my sermons."

"Also, it perks them up when I insert those three anecdotes or relevant jokes that you recommend for each Sunday's address."

"What finally sold me on employing humor was your remark that Jesus used the main tool of Bob Hope and other famous jokesters, namely hyperbole."

"For you said Jesus warned the crowd about looking for the mote (speck) in their brother's eye but failing to notice the beam (sawlog) in their own eye."

"Dr. Crane, I have become interested in a little psychological detective work of my own, for I find that salesmen and public relations men have a tendency to exaggerate somewhat, even if not to the degree you'd called hyperbole."

"But bookkeepers, chemists and other introverts seldom use hyperbole."

"In fact, they are more likely to be pessimistic and minimize. 'What word is a good antonym for hyperbole?'"

"I tried 'belittle' but it isn't quite the term, for it seems to suggest a critical intent."

Word Sculptors

"Semantics" is the technical name for this study of the shades of meanings or nuances that words possess."

Synonyms are "twin" terms that may be substituted for each other in most cases, but even synonyms are not "identical twins," since they have slightly different "personalities."

In Chapter I, of our college textbook "Psychology Applied," I have gone into word "personalities" at some length so go to your local library and read that chapter if you wish a fuller account."

For example, the idea of a "group" has many synonyms, but you can't always substitute one of another because of a vague, unpleasant "feeling tone," which is how advertisers describe such things."

Thus, we can speak of a group or a bunch of flowers, but a bunch of girls is a bevy, and a bevy of elephants is a herd, while a herd of angels is a host, and a host of crooks is a gang.

If you try to substitute "gang" and say "A gang of angels," you immediately sense the inappropriate "feeling tone."

Prior to the advent of our textbook in practical psychology, the titles of such texts were always "Applied Psychology."

But I reversed that to "Psychology Applied."

Contrast those two titles and see which is the more dynamic!

But what about Lawrence's desire for an "opposite" or antonym for "hyperbole?"

Can you reduce "extravagant minimization" to a single term?

We talk about the zenith when the sun is overhead and its antonym is "nadir."

Should we thus contrast "hyperbole" with such a new term as "nadirbole?"

You will find that semantics can really be fun, so encourage your children to become detectives of words.
